FRIDAY, JUNE 10 @ One O'Clock

Reaney Auditorium at Stratford Central Secondary School

AXIOMA TEATRO (PARAGUAY)

Todo Vive

Recommended Audience: Grades 4-10

Get ready for "The Eco Squad". The children's theatre group "Axioma" from Paraguay has imagined a mission to save the planet. Dire warnings about global warming and environmental degradation have inspired and focused these fierce players. As they gather force, they become aware that everything is life and that there is an urgent requirement to take care of everything around them. Their message is "small actions make the difference".

The Company

Axioma Teatro was founded in 2011 and cast members are all students of an arts academy located in Asunción, Paraguay where their education includes theatre, literature, music and dance. In this production aimed at young theatregoers, the troupe delivers their social criticism in both serious and funny ways, using liberal doses of gags, visual effects, songs and shadow theatre.

Director: Clara Zelada

Running Time: 52 minutes

THE PIANO THEATRE (RUSSIAN FEDERATION)

Wings for Clowns

In no way does their deafness limit the artistic expression of this troupe of child actors from the Russian Federation. In many ways, their unique perspective on the world – one without sound – informs their art and their performance.

In Wings for Clowns, the actors use the language of motion to deliver several miniature performances featuring archetypal characters such as Pierrot, Harlequin, Columbine, Old Man and Old Woman. Trees, Sea, Wind and Rain are the main heroes of the performance. Through these characters the inner life of each performer is revealed and the audience is engaged.

The Company

The Piano Theatre has existed under the auspices of the Nizhny Novgorod boarding school for deaf children in Russia since 1986. There, deaf children and teenagers are trained in pantomime, clownery, dancing and acting. The Piano Theatre has taken part in more than 50 international theatre festivals and gatherings in Europe, Asia and North America.
